➤ The History Of Cryptocurrency

A cryptocurrency, crypto-currency, or crypto is a digital currency designed to work through a computer network that is not reliant on any central authority, such as a government or bank, to uphold or maintain it. The first cryptocurrency was created by Satoshi Nakamoto, the pseudonym for an anonymous computer programmer or group of programmers, on January 3, 2009, when Bitcoin software was made available to the public. The software would release some 21 million Bitcoins after its release to the public.

➔ How Cryptocurrencies Work

Cryptocurrencies run on a distributed public ledger called blockchain, a record of all transactions updated and held by currency holders.

Units of cryptocurrency are created through a process called mining, which involves using computer power to solve complicated mathematical problems that generate coins. Users can also buy the currencies from brokers, then store and spend them using cryptographic wallets.

If you own cryptocurrency, you don't own anything tangible. What you own is a key that allows you to move a record or a unit of measure from one person to another without a trusted third party.

➤ Blockchain Technology

Blockchain is a decentralized ledger that records transactions in linked blocks.

Blockchain is a decentralized digital ledger that securely stores records across a network of computers in a way that is transparent, immutable, and resistant to tampering. Each "block" contains data, and blocks are linked in a chronological "chain."

➤ Smart Contract

A Smart Contract is a self-executing digital agreement encoded in code, operating on blockchain platforms like Ethereum. It automates contract enforcement, enhancing transparency, security, and efficiency by eliminating intermediaries. Widely used in sectors like finance and supply chain management, smart contracts streamline processes and build trust through decentralization. However, they also face challenges, such as code vulnerabilities and legal complexities.

➤ What is BNB?

Binance Coin (BNB) is a cryptocurrency that uses smart contracts to govern the issuance, trading, and movement of tokens, ensuring the security and transparency of transactions. The coin operates on the Binance Chain, Binance's proprietary blockchain designed for fast and efficient transactions.

On BNB Smart Chain, BNB is used to pay for transaction fees and to participate in the network's consensus mechanism. BNB is also used as a utility token that allows users to receive discounts on transaction fees when trading on the Binance centralized cryptocurrency exchange.

1. Binance Chain: Fast, decentralized trading.
2. Binance Smart Chain (BSC): Smart contracts and dApps with low fees.
3. BNB Token: Used for fees, staking, and utility within the Binance ecosystem.

Together, they support trading, DeFi, and decentralized applications.
